

WEBINAR hosted by the RESAVER Consortium discussing virtual employee mobility.

Home and Campus – can Research Institutions support staff to work across borders?

Following increasing demand, the RESAVER Consortium is pleased to invite you to our mobility solutions webinar to share some thoughts from pan-European social security, tax and pension experts and pension fund stakeholders around the current challenges companies face in regards to retirement benefits with increasingly mobile workforces.

A diverse panel will help you navigate the constantly evolving environment, so you can better understand the challenges and possible courses of action for your organisation.

Speakers

Indi Seehra: Issues facing HR on virtual employee mobility in a post-pandemic world

Indi Seehra is Director of Human Resources at the London School of Economics and Political Science. He is involved in a number of EU and UK initiatives to support researcher careers and mobility. He is a regular speaker on research leadership, a consultant to Talent Squared looking to link talent with resource availability globally, and an adviser to the International Bar Association Global Employment Institute.

Robin Bailey: Social security challenges in Europe on virtual mobility

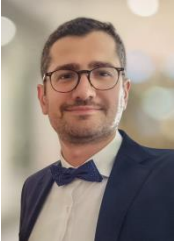

Robin is a senior manager within the UK Global Mobility team at Mazars. He has more than 15 years' experience in personal and expatriate taxation, specifically dealing with employer and employee compliance in relation to international employment.

Robin manages a number of expatriate programmes and has significant experience in advising employers on how to manage their tax and other regulatory compliance obligations for their remote workers.

Through his experience, Robin has a good understanding of the higher education sector and works with a number of universities to help them manage their internationally mobile employees, and recently presented at the 2021 BUFDDG conference on short-term business visitors.

Slaven Misljencevic: Brain circulation in Europe

Slaven Misljencevic works in the Directorate-General for Research and Innovation of the European Commission since 2017 and is responsible for the realisation of a European labour market for researchers, focusing on the role of Higher Education Institutions and Research Organisations in a reinforced partnership with Member States and public and private research stakeholders. He is also steering the development of RESAVER IORP. Previously he worked as a product manager at AXA Belgium, where he led the development of new employee benefit products.

Jasmina Zeitlberger: RESAVER - The Solution to Pensions for Mobile Employees

Jasmina Zeitlberger is a Human Resources Manager at Central European University in Vienna, Austria. Responsible for HR strategy and projects, people management, employee relations, faculty and staff relocation from Hungary to Austria. She has more than 7 years' experience in Human Resources cross-border initiatives, change management and international employment, and has lived and worked in three countries across Europe. Previously she worked as SVP, CEE Corporate Investment Banking, Strategy, Innovation and Commercial Planning in UCG, Italy.

About the RESAVER Consortium

The RESAVER Consortium is an international, not-for-profit organisation, established in 2014. The Consortium consists of research performing organisations that are determined to tackle the issues mobile employees face when it comes to the accumulation of adequate pension provisions. The Consortium established the RESAVER Pension Fund, the first pan-European multi-employer pension fund based on the IORP Directive.
